The Inthaphone Family

our story

My name is Vilayvanh Inthaphone. I have two children. My daughter's name is Ava and she is 14 months. My son, Ayden, is one month old.

We currently live in a one-bedroom apartment with very limited space. I've been employed at the University of Michigan Hospital for over 12 years. A few years back I lost everything in an apartment fire. The complex claimed that the fire wasn't what caused the damage, it was asbestos and renters insurance doesn't cover asbestos damage. I had to rebuild and start over. The moral of this situation taught me that material things can be replaced and now I'm working on a home I can say is mine and my children's.

I always wanted to own my own house but was never motivated because it was just me. Now that I have a little family I want them to grow up in a place that they can call home and have a backyard they can play in. I look forward to raising my kids at our new home long term instead of moving to different apartments due to rent increasing.

Habitat has encouraged me to find the right size home and location that is affordable for my family.

We definitely appreciate everyone that has helped and played a big role in making this dream come true. We thank everyone that has taken their time to help do so.
